- including synthesis between practice and theory

12. Indicative Content:

Art Writing: Histories, Theories and Methodologies maps a broad spectrum of approaches, methodologies and theories of art writing. The course encourages students to consider art writing as a discipline and to examine its cultural and literary forms, histories, content and contexts. The curriculum concerns creative, philosophical, critical and theoretical approaches to writing about art, writing with art and writing as art. You will be introduced to a range of modes of contemporary artist writing including the artist novel, prose poetry and the lyric essay, and encouraged to define your own ambitious and experimental research enquiry and practice in relation to the production, distribution and reception of your work. Teaching and learning methods include a series of lectures, seminars and reading groups.
